Forecast for Friday 25 Nov 2022

Weather: Showery rain overnight but a few clearer spells too and showers tending to ease around dawn. A few showers lingering in the morning period but these gradually fizzling out and longer bright or sunny spells developing. Mainly dry in the afternoon but feeling cool in the blustery winds. Increasing cloud spilling in from the west on Friday evening with a few further showers.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 600m: 70% associated with morning showers increasing to 90% as showers die out.

Low cloud and visibility: Low cloud associated with the showery rain in the early morning will mean layers of cloud above 500m around showers, the cloud will gradually thin and break with just patches around 600m by late morning, mainly in the west. Visibility will be moderate in early showers but will improve during the day and be very good during the afternoon with good views across the hills.

Forecast for Saturday 26 Nov 2022

Weather: Cloudy overnight but mostly dry, mist and fog patches forming around dawn. It will become a dull morning with cloud increasing and some drizzle, mainly in the west, dry for much of the rest of the area. Rain and gales spreading east in the afternoon with most places wet by mid afternoon. Rain is likely to become persistent and heavy during the evening, perhaps some breaks further west by late evening.

Maximum wind: Southerly 30-35mph with gusts 45-50mph.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 600m: 80% falling to 40% as cloud thickens during the afternoon.

Low cloud and visibility: Patches of low cloud turning more scattered above 500m in the morning with visibility below the cloud turning moderate during the morning, cloud will lower and thicken in the afternoon. Southern areas will see more breaks and less cloud in general. By mid afternoon broken cloud above 400m is likely for most areas and in the rain visibility is likely to be poor at times.

Temperature: Valleys: Plus 11 Celsius.
At 600m: Plus 6-7 Celsius.
Freezing level: Above all summits.
